Profile Summary

From following in my parents' footsteps, and dedicating myself to taking care of the family business, where I learned to deal with people, I developed my communication and problem solving skills. With the financial crisis of 2022, I went to get new ways of selling, so I started to develop a website for the store, where I had to learn new technologies, where I remembered how much I liked development and so I've been learning more and more.
